

Here and Now

A breath so quiet, soft and bright,
as if the world had just turned light.

A leaf that trembles in the air,
reveals what words could not declare.

The time slows down, the mind grows
a stillness flows from deep inside.
No past disturbs, no future calls –
just now, that gently holds us all.

