

Paths Beyond the Glass

Her hands rest softly on the pane,
her gaze is lost, both pale and plain.
A train moves slowly through the land,
as if it held a dream in hand.

Her thoughts drift out to skies afar,
and bring back longing where they are.
A silent pull begins to rise,
with no set end – yet wide it flies.

