

When Distance Needs No Path

The shoes are dusty, the road is wide,
the dawn lays gold along its side.
A breeze moves warm across my pack,
the map unfolds with no way back.

No voice commands the steps I take,
just space that shifts with every break.
I breathe in deep, the air feels new,
and leave behind what once I knew.

