The difference between who you are and who you want to be is what you do.